Flooded areas

Following heavy rains during the past month, the Missouri River is on the rampage for the second time this year. Gov. Christopher Bond has declared 36 northern counties disaster areas, qualifying them for state aid. Hundreds of families have been evacuated from their homes as the swollen river slowly spreads across low-lying areas. The above photos were taken Tuesday morning during an aerial tour of flooded areas in Saline, Cooper and Chariton Counties. In the photo at top, a farm in western Cooper County has become a victim of the rising water while in the photo at right volunteers attempt to build a sandbag and dirt dike across the already flooded Highway 24, a couple of miles west of Brunswick in Chariton County. From the air it could be seen that the water had broken through dikes and over roads in a number of places.

City Council allocates funds for additional improvements

By DICK JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The City Council voted 6 to 2 Monday to allocate $35,700 for additional improvements at the Sedalia Municipal Airport, clearing the way for acquisition of more than $107,000 in federal assistance for the project.

The city's allocation was needed before the Sedalia Airport Board could make final application for federal funds, according to board chairman Louis R. Hughes Jr.

The action came after an Oct. 5 meeting of the Airport Board and the council in which councilmen learned that 75 per cent of the cost of expansion could be obtained through federal sources.

Total cost of the additional airport improvements to the city will be $170,956, according to figures presented by Hughes and the architectural firm of Sammons and Buller, at the Oct. 5 meeting. The council will allocate only the $35,700 during this fiscal year, it was learned.

Jones indicated that the city money would be used to help construct a taxi strip, taxi-way lighting, and additional tie-downs, as well as added parking at the airport.

Casting dissenting votes on the proposal were Councilmen Carl Franklin and Lee Garrison. "I voted against it because any other time we've done anything, we've had to go back and check the budget," Franklin said.

Franklin's reference was to the council's recent action regarding salary and benefit proposals made by Sedalia firemen, which the city has rejected for this fiscal year. "I just disagree with the way we've handled this," Franklin continued. The Third Ward Democrat had supported the firemen's requests.

Garrison, who joined in dissent, agreed with Franklin that his vote "was sort of a protest vote against the way the firemen deal was handled."

The council also completed action for acquiring property to be used as a community center complex. Purchase of property belonging to St. Patrick's Catholic Church was completed after three years of paper work.

Total price for execution of the deed to the property at 415 East Fourth was $185,700, with federal funds amounting to $172,147 also being appropriated. The building will be extensively remodeled and a gymnasium constructed for the community center.

In other council business, Councilman Jesse Robinson announced that the city's annual fall Clean-up Week will begin Nov. 26.

Kissinger, Tho Nobel Peace Prize winners

OSLO, Norway (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho were awarded the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize today for their efforts to officially end the Vietnam war.

Kissinger and Tho defeated 45 other accepted candidates, including President Nixon, President Tito of Yugoslavia and 10 international organizations.

The prize was about $120,000 and will be shared equally between the two winners.

The Nobel committee chairman, Mrs. Aase Lionaes, a judge and member of Parliament, announced the decision after the five-member committee reviewed the candidates for 2½ hours.

When announcement of the award came, Kissinger was reported in a meeting at the White House and was unavailable for immediate comment.

Kissinger, 50, is the 16th American to win or share the peace prize since it first was awarded in 1901.

The last American winner was Norman E. Borlaug, who developed a new type of high-yield grain for use in underdeveloped countries. He won the prize in 1970.

Le Duc Tho is the first Asian to win the prize.

The prize has been shared by two individuals 11 times previously.

No Nobel Peace Prize was awarded last year, as has happened on 18 occasions since 1914.

Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany won the last prize in 1971 for his reconciliation policy toward Communist Eastern Europe.

The terse announcement from the Nobel committee said:

"The Nobel Committee of the Norwegian Storting has decided to give the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize to Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho to share equally between them. The prize money is 510,000 Swedish kroner — $120,000 dollars. The prize money for 1972 is returned to the main fund."

"Kissinger and Tho as joint candidates were suggested by the Norwegian Nobel committee's member, History Prof. John Sanness, but Kissinger had also been suggested by others," Mrs. Lionaes said.

Egyptian missiles pointed at Israel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt said Tuesday his forces have missiles poised in "the very depths of Israel" but added his government is ready to talk peace if the Israelis withdraw from occupied Arab lands. A fierce battle was reported on the Suez Canal.

Premier Golda Meir of Israel told Parliament in Jerusalem that Israeli forces had crossed the Suez Canal into Egypt. An Israeli military communiqué later said a task force had moved across the canal and was operating behind Egyptian lines to attack anti-aircraft missile units and artillery.

An Egyptian communiqué reported that Israelis were attempting to smash through a bridgehead on the canal, and added: "A vicious battle is raging, with our forces using armor, infantry and mechanized units with air support to block and destroy and enemy penetration. The enemy has suffered heavy losses and the battle is still going on."

The Israelis gave no further details of the operation.

Tank and artillery battles raged in the Sinai Desert and in Syria as Sadat made a tough address to the Egyptian People's Assembly in Cairo and Mrs. Meir talked to the Israeli parliament in Jerusalem.

"At this very moment Israeli forces are on the western bank of the canal," the 75-year-old Israeli premier said.

Tank and artillery battles raged in the Sinai Desert and in Syria as Sadat made a tough address to the Egyptian People's Assembly in Cairo and Mrs. Meir talked to the Israeli parliament in Jerusalem.

"At this very moment Israeli forces are on the western bank of the canal," the 75-year-old Israeli premier said.

A valedictory on Monday night was a 17-minute, nationally televised address in which he also urged reforms in political campaign spending, government contract bidding and the use of immunity by prosecutors.

Speaking in a calm and deliberate manner, Agnew denied again all allegations of extortion and bribery raised against him by the Justice Department.

And he said his decision not to contest a felony charge of having evaded some $13,500 in Federal income taxes in 1967, when he was governor of Maryland, was not a guilty plea but "the only way to quickly resolve the situation."

It was done, he said, "to still the raging storm."

But coupled with his reassertion of innocence was a veiled acknowledgement that by some interpretations his activities could have been deemed improper.

"Beyond the insinuation that I pocketed large sums of money, which has never been proven and which I emphatically deny, the intricate tangle of criminal charges leveled at me ... boils down to the accusation that I permitted my fund

Mrs. Meir did not say how many Israelis were on the western side of the Suez Canal or where they had crossed.

Egypt took control of the 103-mile-long waterway after its troops stormed across at the outbreak of the current hostilities Oct. 6 and pushed into the Sinai peninsula seized by Israel in 1967. Since then Israeli and Egyptian tanks and artillery have been battling along an uneven front placed by claims from both sides at from three to 10 miles east of the canal.

Sadat couched his missile threat with an announcement he is ready to reopen the canal, closed since the 1967 conflict, and sign a cease-fire leading to a peace conference under U.N. auspices. But he said this would be possible only if Israel pulls out of the Arab land it captured in 1967 and guarantees the rights of the Palestinian people.

Israel has rejected both demands in the past as prior conditions for negotiations.

Mrs. Meir declared in her talk — apparently not intended as a point-by-point response to Sadat — that Israel will never sign a cease-fire with the Arabs unless it specifies the return of "all our prisoners."

U.S. transport planes were rushing arms to bolster Israel's battered war machine, meanwhile, and a Soviet airlift was doing the same for the Syrians and Egyptians as the Middle East conflict went into its 11th day with more furious fighting.

Israel claimed its armor and artillery knocked out 50 Arab tanks on the Syrian front and said its warplanes bombarded military targets in Syria and in Egypt about 100 miles north of Cairo, the Egyptian capital where Sadat gave his speech.

"If you imagine you can hit at Arab depth," Sadat declared in a reference to Israeli leaders. "I want to warn you that the transdesert Egyptian missiles of the Zafer type are now fitted on their bases."

"I have always warned that in our confrontation with Israel, it will by an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and depth for depth," he added.

The Egyptian president, wearing a full military uniform, said that if Israel refuses the Arab demands it faces "a war of attrition which we can endure with greater ease than they can endure."

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Mideast war threatens U.S. oil imports, the White House announced today that President Nixon would meet on Wednesday with four Arab foreign ministers.

Deputy White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren made the announcement. He would say only that the foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia, Algeria, Kuwait and Morocco had "asked to see the President to discuss the current situation in the Middle East."

The announcement came amid reports that the envoys were carrying a message from King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who has been under intense pressure from his Arab counterparts to deny Mideast oil to the United States.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called on President Nixon today to take the lead in convening a six-nation summit conference to halt the war in the Middle East.

In a Senate speech, Mansfield suggested that Nixon "issue an urgent invitation" to Soviet Leader Leonid Brezhnev, French President Georges Pompidou, West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

On junior high problems

Monetary allowance from construction firm accepted

A proposal which would authorize a monetary allowance from the Don L. Bron Construction Co. of $8,373.70 to the Sedalia School Board for uncorrected items and unpaid bills on the Sedalia Junior High building, in return for the board's acceptance of the uncorrected items "as is," was accepted by the board at a special meeting Monday afternoon.

The items, and the monetary allowance made for each one, are as follows: uneven band floor, $3,012; dirty interior brick, $340; cracked stone window sills, $1,444; peeling swimming pool finish, $1,000; various walls not constructed plumb and square, $1,750; utility bills for time that contractor had not completed various areas of job, $284.52; utility bills for water and related items for pool repair after initial filling, $483.18; and test on core samples of stone sills, $60.

It was later learned that, of the five specific construction items for which monetary allowances were made, only the uneven band floor, cracked stone sills and peeling swimming pool finish will be repaired or replaced. The money to be received in compensation for the dirty interior brick and out-of-plumb walls will be put in the general school district fund.

"We're not going to knock out and replace any walls," board member Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick said. "Also, the interior brick doesn't have dirt on it, rather it's splattered paint. You can't hardly get that off, so we'll probably just let that stay there."

The awarding of the $8,373.70 monetary allowance to the board reduced the amount due Bron by the board to $181,060.30.

The proposal, submitted to the board by building architect Don Buller, also specified that the building be accepted by the board as "complete" with the following exceptions: wavy surfaces on football field, light fixture trim rings missing, discolored faucets in west restrooms, kitchen freezer not functioning.

Higher gasoline prices expected increases since Sept. 28 — the date of the last council-approved price hike — can take advantage of the new retail price increase authorization.

The council also authorized dealers the right to increase prices automatically after Nov. 1 to cover any future increases in wholesale gasoline costs.

This automatic pass-through had been a major demand of retailers, a number of whom closed their stations to protest regulations they viewed as discriminatory.

Charles Binsted, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers said the council's actions "will give dealers a great deal of the relief they advantage of the spring and summer gasoline shortage.

Its price ceilings were designed to force retailers to give up some of these increases.

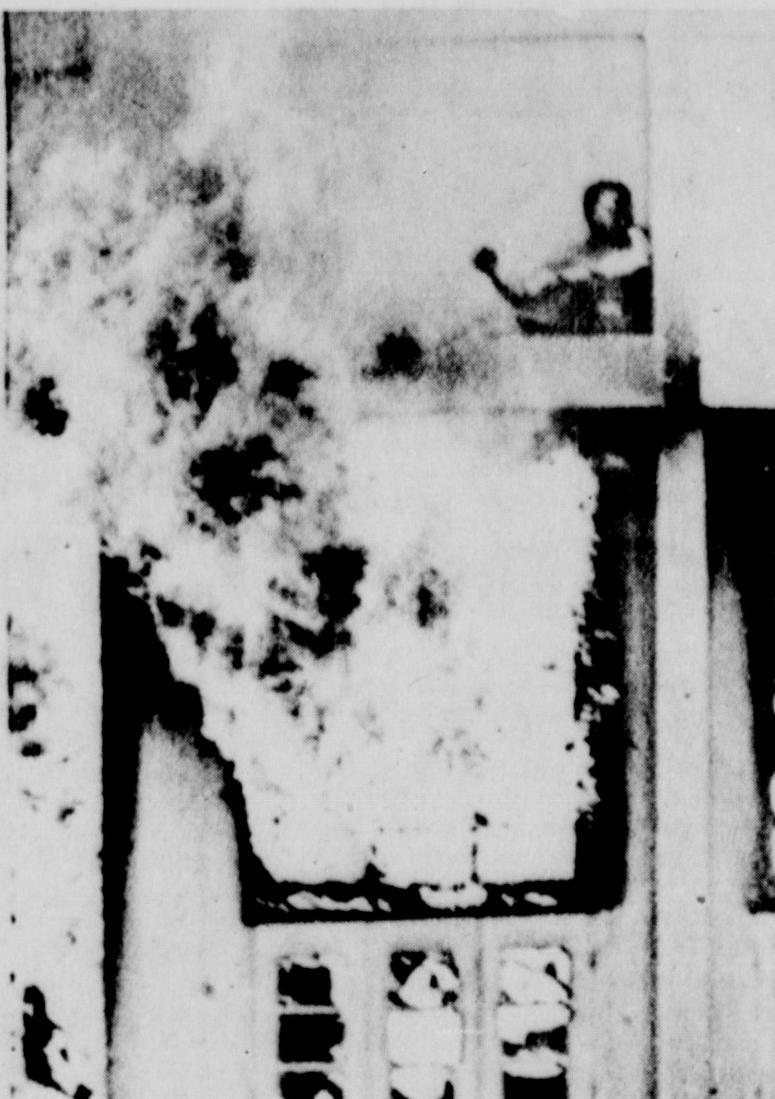

The automatic increase regulations, taking effect Nov. 1, will not allow increases for profit and will prohibit increases of fractions of cents at all levels of the industry.

Instead, refiners and retailers alike will have to wait until their increased costs amount to at least a cent per gallon before imposing any increase at all.

Council director John T. Dunlop said this penny increment rule will have a limiting effect on future price increases.

Treatment for lead poisoning

Dear Dr. Lamb — I'm writing you in hopes you may be able to offer some advice to one who is suffering from lead poisoning. This lady has been under treatment for about two years, and the doctors tell her there is nothing they can do.

She lives in a small town in the Midwest and has been treated by doctors there. She has heard this condition has been treated successfully by a doctor in California but doesn't know whether or not she should try to go there at considerable expense having such little information. Any advice you might offer will be greatly appreciated.

Dear reader — There is no reason she can't be treated in her own community. Mild or moderate lead poisoning in adults is not difficult to treat anymore. There are two principles. Get the patient away from the source of the poison, for example, children away from lead paint that they may be picking off the walls. The second principle is to eliminate any of the accumulated stores of lead in the body.

The drug of choice to eliminate lead is called Penicillamine. It combines with the lead and eliminates it through the kidneys. In the course of two years, if your friend has been treated adequately, the excess lead should long since have been removed from her body. Penicillamine can be taken by mouth for long periods of time.

Lead poisoning can cause damage to the body. This includes damage to the nerves, including the brain and muscles. The damage that is left cannot be cured by the medicine I mentioned. The treatment here is directed to what can be accomplished to restore function to damaged structures, be that nerves, eyes or muscles. There is no magic cure for that either. Many of these problems are treated by rehabilitation methods. These are commonly available in larger medical centers.

So, I can't believe your friend is going to gain much by going on a long trip away from home for something that is most surely available in her home state. If she wants a consultation on her problem have her ask her family doctor to refer her to the nearest university medical center. The center in her state is a good one.

Patients looking for a solution to what seems to be an unsolvable medical problem can always ask their family doctor for a referral to their nearest university medical center. There just isn't very much known in medicine that each one of these centers haven't heard about or are not skilled in doing. I know patients get medical advice from all levels of medical skill — medical doctors, osteopaths, chiropractors, nurses, next door neighbors, the mailman and even medical columns.

Considering all of these possibilities, if your problem isn't resolved, I don't think you can go wrong by insisting, whatever the source of your medical advice, that you be referred to the nearest university medical center for evaluation. If your source won't help you, you can write to the university medical center and ask them for a recommendation for medical evaluation closer to your home, or how to be seen. This is much better than chasing across the nation on rumor and hearsay advice.

Drying flowers can be simple

By KARLA WALTERS
Women's Editor.

Drying flowers is not difficult, time-consuming, or even very messy. The process is simple. It only requires some dexterity and patience to produce perfect results.

The easiest method is simply to hang flowers or decorative plants upside down in a warm, dark place. This way, "They'll dry naturally by themselves," says Don King of Archias Floral Co.

According to the University of Missouri Extension Division, the best results from this method will come with everlasting: strawflowers, globe amaranth, statice, money plant and celosia. Wild plants that will respond well to this treatment are: cattails, milkweed pods, goldenrod, Queen Anne's lace, sunac, curly lock, yarrow and wild grasses.

"The goldenrod is already bloomed out," King says, "and the statice is probably gone, but I think maybe we're still all right. We haven't had a killing frost yet."

For brighter dried flowers, it's necessary to speed up the drying time. This is done by gently covering the flowers in a dry, porous material, usually a sand-borax mixture or a commercial product called silica-gel.

The first combination normally takes about two weeks to do the job. Use equal parts clean sand and borax. Vermiculite or cornmeal, preferable because of their lighter weight, can be substituted for sand. The container should be left open and stored in a warm, dry place.

The silica-gel process takes only 36 to 48 hours, according to the Extension. This product leaves the brightest colors by absorbing moisture quickly. It must be tightly covered during the drying process to keep it from absorbing moisture from the air. After use, it can be dried in a warm oven to renew it.

Mrs. Ruth Martin, employee of Archias Floral Co., arranges some commercially-prepared dried flowers.

Wild or garden flowers can be easily dried at home with practice and knowledge of the proper methods.

these materials include: marigold, zinnia, aster, rose, dahlia, chrysanthemum, carnation, larkspur, delphinium and snapdragon.

At this time, King says, "marigolds, asters, roses and chrysanthemums are just right for drying."

Some tips from the Extension for good results are:

✓ Remove stems before drying and make artificial ones with wire and green florist's tape, bending a hook into one end of the wire to hold the blossom.

✓ Place the flower on a bed of the drying material and sift the material around it, making sure the flower is held in a natural position.

✓ Dry more flowers than needed. Not all will be perfect and some may be broken.

With practice and patience, however, these methods can produce some professional results.

Thermal windows won't come clean

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Our new home has double-paned thermal windows. I have repeatedly washed both the inside and the outside of these windows but the panes are dirty on the inside so they do not look as if they had ever been washed. How can I get the glass in between clean as there seems no way of removing the panes short of breaking them?

— MRS. H. W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with dirty grocery and department store baskets. No mother wants to put her child in a very dirty cart. The carts are often not only dirty but the baby seats are broken and the wheels do not want to go the same way you do. I cannot see why the markets do not wash and repair these carts just as they do the floors and windows. Such little gestures mean a lot to their customers. — MRS. B. L. H.

DEAR POLLY — Barbara can mend her baby's plastic pants that are split at the seams by sewing them on her sewing machine with the zigzag stitch. They can be patched by using a piece cut from a pair that is past mending. Zigzag all around the patch, turning under the raw edges and then sew on to the right side of the pants so there is no danger of the patch scratching baby. — MRS. L. W.

DEAR POLLY — I read in a baby magazine that rubber pants can be ironed together so I tried it and it worked. Fold a piece of waxed paper over the edges with the waxy side in and iron with a warm iron until the two sides melt together. Do not get the iron too hot. The iron stays clean and the rubber pants last quite a while longer. — MRS. J. S.

Couple seeks new trial in big law suit

A motion for a new trial was filed in Pettis County Circuit Court Monday by the plaintiffs in a malpractice suit decided Oct. 1 in court.

The motion was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Tussey, Fulton, who sought $2.4 million from three doctors who reportedly treated Mrs. Tussey in 1968 as a result of a gynecological disorder.

A 12-person jury decided in favor of the defendants after they heard five and one-half days of testimony. The defendants were Dr. R. A. Osbourn and Dr. James Ritterbusch, both of Fulton, and Dr. Fred Handler, Jefferson City.

In the motion seeking a new trial, the Tussseys contend that the jury was prejudiced in the case because three of the jurors were insurance agents and "numerous" jurors had relatives associated with the medical profession.

The plaintiffs also stated that the verdict of the jury went against the "weight of credible evidence in the case." The Tussseys also noted that a disposition of one of their witnesses wasn't allowed to be entered into the record "because of a technicality."

The case was heard by Lafayette County Circuit Court Judge Phil H. Cook.

Monetary

properly, chiller relays not functioning properly and aulty stone facia on the exterior of the building. Payment on these projects will be withheld pending their satisfactory correction at a later date, Buller wrote.

The official estimated total cost of repairing or replacing these items was set at $39,125. The brunt of this figure was consumed by the estimated cost of replacing the stone facia, a project which will cost $34,125, according to Buller's statement.

Subtracting the $39,125 figure from the $181,060.30 previously retained by the contractor to pay subcontractors and material suppliers, a total of $141,935.30 is now left for this purpose, Buller explained. These figures were arrived at, Buller told the board, during a conference Friday at the junior high attended by himself, representatives of the Bron Co., Bron's attorneys and school board attorney William Brown.

In addition to suggesting the monetary allowance figures and withholding-payment items, Buller also submitted in his proposal a request that payments to subcontractors and materials suppliers, from the $141,935.30 balance, be made by the board on a joint check basis to the subcontractor and the Bron Co. Under this arrangement, all checks issued by the board will have to be signed by both Bron officials and representatives of the subcontractors or materials suppliers.

This arrangement, Buller said, was also agreed upon at the Friday conference at the junior high.

District Superintendent Dr. Allan Henningsen expressed satisfaction with Buller's proposal, noting that it practically paralleled an earlier offer made in September by the board, but which was rejected by Bron.

The chief differences between the September proposal and the one approved Monday, Henningsen said, was a change in the payment arrangement and the reduction of a monetary allowance on the peeling swimming pool finish from $1,822.50 to $1,000. The board originally requested that funds to pay the remainder of construction costs be placed in an escrow account, rather than the joint-check formula agreed upon Monday.

Although acknowledging another reduction of $1,676 was made in a monetary payment made on the faulty window sills, Henningsen said he did not view this reduction as a "concession on the district's part" because the original figure of $3,120 for that work "was an arbitrary figure we used to raise the amount of money withheld to $50,000. We are not disappointed in that sense and, hence, we view the reduction in payment made on the swimming pool job as the only concession."

Anticipating the possibility of suits being filed against the school district by subcontractors involved in the projects for which payment will not be immediately made, board member Donald Barnes declined to support Buller's proposal until "we have an assurance that we (the district) will not have to pay litigation costs in such proceedings."

After conferring with bonding company officials in Kansas City, Barnes informed the board that the Bron company will assume all litigation costs if suits against the district are filed. If the Bron Co. is insolvent at that time, the firm's bonding company will assume the costs, Barnes said.

"My whole attitude is that every day is a day that we can start anew in seeking the solution to whatever the problem may be in the next 24 hours," Barnes said.

Guilty plea is given in drug case in city

A Clinton woman pleaded guilty in Pettis County Circuit Court Tuesday morning to a charge of obtaining a controlled substance by fraudulent means, while two other persons were arraigned in Magistrate Court.

Pleading guilty was Mary Ann Hays, Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer postponed sentencing pending an investigation for probation.

The Hays woman is charged with forging a prescription Jan. 31 at the Sedalia Drug 123 South Ohio, for the purchase of amphetamines. According to court records, she allegedly signed the name of Dr. Robert Wheeler to the prescription.

In other action, Bernard C. Falk, a former Sedalian, was charged in Magistrate Court with stealing more than $50. Falk, 66, is the former manager of the Broadway Arms Apartments.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax took Falk into custody Monday at a jail in Laredo, Tex. Fairfax said Falk was transferred to the Laredo jail after he had been apprehended by law enforcement officers in Monterrey, Mexico. Falk signed a waiver of extradition Monday, the sheriff said.

In another action, Bernard C. Falk, a former Sedalian, was charged in Magistrate Court with stealing more than $50. Falk, 66, is the former manager of the Broadway Arms Apartments.

Falk is charged with converting to his own use a check of $80 made out to the Broadway Arms Apartments on Oct. 1, 1971.

Andrew Webb was appointed by the court to serve as Falk's attorney. His preliminary hearing was scheduled for Oct. 24. Falk remains in the county jail in lieu of $3,000 bond.

In other Magistrate Court activity, C. H. Orman, 294 Waterbury Ridge, who is charged with issuing an insufficient funds check of more than $100, pleaded innocent at his arraignment. The preliminary hearing was scheduled for Nov. 1. He remains free on his own recognizance.

Orman is charged with issuing a bogus check of $112.18 on Sept. 14 at Chamberlin's Service Station, 16th and Limit.

the Citizens Traffic Advisory Committee to establish a four-way stop at Fifth and Massachusetts.

In another move related to traffic, the council approved a recommendation of City Prosecutor Robert Liston and Chief of Police William Miller establishing an ordinance setting regulations for traffic on four-lane highways.

The ordinance stipulates: (1) that vehicles must drive on the right half of the road, except when passing or making a left turn; (2) proceed in a careful and prudent manner; (3) drive in a single lane only; (4) not follow another car too closely.

The council also took final action on the purchase of land bordering Centennial Park, which has grown up in weeds, causing problems because of the proximity to the park. The land, which consists of two narrow lots located immediately west of the park's current boundary, was acquired from Ronald C. Stith for $200.

The council also approved requests by Dr. J. W. Bryden, John D. Wolf, and Marvin D. Carter. Wolf was granted a zoning change for property at 16th and Carr from R-1 to C-1; Dr. Bryden was given approval for change from R-3 to C-0 at 550 West Broadway; and Carter was granted a change from R-3 to C-1 for the Handiest Laundry, 315 North Osage.

In another zoning request, the council tabled a recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission that property at Ninth and Warren be re-zoned from R-1 (single family residential) to C-1 (local business). The property, owned by Wilmont Caulter, 1701 West Ninth, and Earl Thomas, 633 East Ninth, will not be acted on until the council has had an opportunity to view the situation "first hand." Caulter earlier indicated he planned to construct an office building at the location.

Mrs. Adolph Scott, 1702 West Tenth, addressed the council asking that the area "remain residential."

The council also gave approval to a final plat for Glendale Place sub-division. The sub-division, consisting of approximately 80 property lots, is located between 28th and 32nd Streets, west of Grand Avenue. The sub-division property is owned by the Community Financial Services Corp., a subsidiary of the First State Savings Association.

Bids were also accepted for a pick-up truck to be used by the sanitation department, as well as a truck chassis. Low bids on both items were turned in by Pat O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick-GMC, Inc.

Ford made the comment to newsmen on his return flight from Portland, Ore., where he said the nation should work to solve future problems rather than concentrate on the misdeeds of past months.

Needs will determine Israel resupply

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States does not intend to send American military forces into the Middle East but will firmly support Israel's weapons needs, State Department official said today.

Earlier, U.S. officials said this country has sent approximately 500 tons of military equipment and ammunition to Israel since Sunday. This was described as about one-tenth what the Soviet Union has delivered to Arab countries currently at war with Israel.

The State Department disclaimer followed a reported comment by Secretary Henry A. Kissinger at a White House dinner that if the Soviets introduced troops the United States would follow suit.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the present the size and continuation of American arms shipments to Israel depends almost completely on the battlefield needs of the Jerusalem government, according to U.S. officials.

A number of sources indicated, however, that the sea and air supply missions announced Monday would be limited to the replacement of planes, tanks, bombs, artillery rounds and other items as they are lost or expended in the fighting.

For example, administration officials report that the Israelis have lost about 25 U.S.-supplied F4 Phantom jets in the fighting. Initially, most of the planes will be replaced, but Israel cannot expect larger deliveries as urged by some congressmen and senators, officials said.

In announcing the airlift, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said the new deliveries were intended to offset the nearly week-old resupply of Syria and Egypt by the Soviet Union.

"We are concerned that the Soviet airlift will unsettle the balance which we have been committed to maintain for many, many years," McCloskey said. He described the Soviet resupply effort as massive.

He said the Russians, using huge transport planes, have delivered about 4,000 tons of equipment to Egypt and Syria in some 280 flights that began last Wednesday.

Other administration officials, indicating a higher rate of delivery, said the flights have been increasing from a few dozen to more than 70 flights on Sunday.

Ann Landers

Woman sees self in letter to Ann

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I read the letter from the girl who had been in bed with so many guys that she had lost count. It seems she was hoping for a genuine love relationship and found only rejection, self-recrimination and deeper depression. I could have written that letter myself three years ago.

My problem started with a brutal sexual encounter that robbed me not only of my virginity but my self-respect. I had a strict religious upbringing and felt so defiled that the only way I could convince myself that I was human was to have sex with somebody — anybody.

After each boy friend dumped me I hated myself more and felt more worthless. My thoughts kept inching toward suicide. I knew if I didn't get help I'd probably kill myself. Of course, I had no money for a psychiatrist (I was 16 years old), but I remembered your advice to others: "See your school guidance counselor." I decided I had nothing to lose.

With that man's help I am a new person. I actually owe him my life. Several years have passed but I still keep in touch with that incredibly insightful and compassionate high school counselor. Because of him, my relationships with men are on a completely different level.

I hope this letter will help someone who has taken the wrong road as I did years ago. Keep telling them, Ann, that they don't have to stay in the mud if they don't want to. Counseling might not be the answer for everybody, but it was for me. — My Name Is Not Important. My State Is "Contentment."

Dear Contentment: Thank you for a letter that may provide others with the impetus they need to move in the direction of help. You performed a more valuable service today than you will ever know.

Dear Ann Landers: I run a small office staffed by seven competent women. In the last several weeks there has been a mysterious disappearance of many small items and insignificant sums of money from our handbags. All the circumstantial evidence points to one girl as the guilty person. Since I am the manager it is up to me to straighten it out. But how can I tell this girl that she is the suspect?

My desk is the only one that can be locked. The other girls keep their belongings in the lounge area on open shelves. Lockers would be impossible because of lack of space.

Thanks for your help. — Tender Hooks.

Dear T. H.: You simply can't accuse a girl of stealing on the basis of the "evidence" in your

Dose of claptrap from crime panel

If this country is really looking for ways to save money, one of the best places to start would be by abolishing all special federal and presidential "study" commissions.

This truth has once again been driven home, by the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals. The commission has just delivered itself of a series of recommendations for handling criminals.

Among the panel's recommendations: Many persons convicted of minor crimes, first offenses and white-collar crimes should be released outright; no sentences should exceed five years except for the most serious offenders; even for hard-core violent types, the maximum should be 25 years; many offenders should not be handled by the judicial system at all, but channeled through various social service agencies; no construction of larger new prisons should be undertaken except in special cases, and nothing at all should be built in the way of juvenile facilities; convicts should enjoy all civil rights granted other citizens.

For the most part the commission's report is claptrap. Its recommendations that the criminal be treated as leniently as possible are irresponsible in the extreme, considering the extent of the crime problem facing this country.

Central to the commission's thinking is the belief, so dear to the liberal's heart, that society is to blame in large measure for criminals. As the commission puts it: "...crime and delinquency are symptoms of failure and disorganization in the community as well as in the offender himself."

The commission says it is advising leniency in handling criminals because the tough approach has proved "ineffective." On the contrary, a good case can be made that today's approach has been anything but tough. As just one example, liberal parole procedures now make it possible for a criminal to serve only a fraction of his sentence, and to be back out on the streets breaking the law in hardly any time.

The National Advisory Commission's conclusions took two years and $1.75 million of the taxpayers' money to reach. They are about as valuable as have been those of previous commissions, which have reached equally fuzzy-headed conclusions on such questions as the legalization of pot and the proliferation of pornography.

Bitter disappointment of an Agnew man

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — In time, because all wounds heal in time, this wound will heal. But on the day after Spiro Agnew's confession and resignation, as this is written, the wound bleeds. It hurts. God, it hurts.

I liked and admired this man. I believed in him. In print and on the hustings, I have defended Ted Agnew a thousand times these past five years. I applauded his deserved attacks upon the liberal media. I delighted in his quick wit and self-deprecating humor. And because he had not been touched by Watergate — what an irony is that! — I looked warmly toward his bid to the Republican nomination in 1976.

On this cold gray morning in Washington, the disillusion is total.

"I admit," said Agnew in court, "that I did receive payments during the year 1967 which were not expended for political purposes and that, therefore, these payments were income taxable to me in that year, and that I so knew. I further acknowledge that contracts were awarded by state agencies in 1967 and other years to those who made such payments, and that I was aware of such awards"

In the light of that confession, it is not necessary — it merely quickens the pain — to dwell upon the sordid details etched with such cruel clarity in the government's supporting information. It is all there: the hints, the implications, the brown manila envelopes stuffed with cash, the evidence of payments secretly made to Agnew long after he had ceased to be governor of Maryland and had become vice president of the United States.

It is true, of course, as a matter of law, that these detailed charges have not been proved, and that Agnew is "presumed innocent" of the corruption they entail. He has "categorically denied" their truth. Such matters of law are lost in limbo now. By his own plea to the single count of tax evasion, Agnew made it impossible for the government to prove these other charges. He himself had destroyed the presumption of innocence.

His denial chokes in the throat. Can we believe his protestation? If these other charges were in fact "damned lies," if they were based upon perjured affidavits, if he were guiltless of any wrongdoing, what, then, was his proper course? It was to resign his office, demand trial, and fight for acquittal by a jury.

Yes, such a trial might have inflicted upon the nation, as Attorney General Richardson said, "serious and permanent scars." Such an ordeal, as Agnew said, would have been "brutalizing" for his wife and children. But the nation is strong; it has survived deeper scars. Wives and children are stronger than we think; they would have endured the ordeal. Agnew's one chance for vindication, if he were indeed innocent, was to demand his day in court. On Wednesday he swapped it away.

The hurt is muffled in sorrow. For the past seven years — seven years! — Agnew has been carrying this secret weight upon his conscience. It must have lain like a stone in his belly. No matter how he moved, or joked, or tried to forget it, the lump was still there. What went through Agnew's mind, one wonders, when his friendly visitor came with the envelope in the morning, and he made a speech that night on the old values: honesty, integrity, obedience to law.

It is a lame excuse — it is no excuse at all — that he had financial problems. Everybody has financial problems. As vice president surely he had no need of the money we are left to assume he accepted — no need, that is, in the sense that his immigrant father had needs. Agnew could have gotten along on $72,500 a year. One is reminded of Abe Fortas, who had no need of the outside income he accepted when he served on the Supreme Court. Flawed crystal and false gold! One rues with Browning the course of lost leaders: Just for a handful of silver they leave us.

No one — not the press, not Richard Nixon, not Elliott Richardson or Henry Petersen — no one compelled Agnew in 1967 to adopt "a long-established pattern of political fund-raising in Maryland." No one compelled him to take payments "which were not expended for political purposes." He himself has stained this administration, shattered his believing friends, and dealt one more blow to the crippled President who raised him from obscurity. Don't bother Ted, to say it ain't so.

Merry-go-round

How Nixon dodged most income taxes

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — As a young attorney in the late 1930s, Richard Nixon specialized in federal tax law, which made him an expert in how legally to avoid paying taxes.

It was a specialty that served him well after he became President and acquired a million-dollar estate at San Clemente, California.

A Providence, R.I., reporter named Jack White has dug out the fact that the President paid an income tax of only $792.81 in 1970 and $878.03 in 1971, although he collected a $200,000 yearly salary. We have now confirmed White's figures from our own confidential sources.

Like everyone else, the President's taxes are withheld from his salary. He is also required to pay quarterly estimated taxes on additional income. In 1970, he received a whopping $72,616.43 tax refund; in 1971, his refund was $58,889.41.

In other words, the President — with his huge salary, his kingly estates at San Clemente and Key Biscayne, his government limousines, helicopters, planes and boats — paid less taxes than a family of three earning only $8,500 a year.

The President got away with this giant tax break, apparently, by claiming deductions for mortgage-interest payments, real estate taxes and the gift of his vice-presidential papers to the National Archives.

The Internal Revenue Service, no doubt with some trepidation, audited the President's tax returns for 1971 and 1972. The White House has refused further comment, except to say that the IRS accepted his returns without change.

Presumably, therefore, the IRS accepted the deductions Nixon claimed for the interest payments on the loans he received to finance the San Clemente purchase. He borrowed $625,000 from his rich friend, Robert Abplanalp, to meet the down payment and renovation costs. (Most of the renovations, however, were paid by the taxpayers.)

Subsequently, Abplanalp canceled the $625,000 debt in return for the deed to the outer circle of the San Clemente property. Nixon kept title to the heart of the estate and continued to use the property belonging to Abplanalp. The financial details are complicated. But they boil down to this: Abplanalp put up most of the money for the San Clemente purchase, but the President wound up with the most valuable portion of the estate.

Under these circumstances, tax experts have told us, Nixon should count the canceled $625,000 debt, or at least most of it, as income.

The tax regulations, of course, are subject to different interpretations. They are, indeed, almost beyond human comprehension. The volumes of regulations and interpretations would fill a small library. The table of contents alone runs 1,032 pages.

But we have talked to experts who strongly disagree with the IRS and believe the President has not paid his fair share of the taxes. California's Governor Ronald Reagan, an acknowledged millionaire with a $50,000 annual state salary, also had admitted that he paid no federal or state taxes whatever two years ago.

Yet both Nixon and Reagan have opposed tax reforms that would lighten the burden for the small taxpayer.

FOOTNOTE: It was the acceptance of financial favors, ironically, that got Spiro Agnew in trouble for tax evasion.

Commented Chotiner: "It could well be that anything the McGovern forces get is material we want the general public to have. The significant thing is that if Dougherty is being truthful, someone in the organization is passing on material without authority."

Apparently, Freiden was instructed to seek more information. He reported back to Chotiner on June 3: "I talked to Dougherty several times about (the spy), reminding him that he had mentioned this to me. He shrugged but would say no more."

We reached Dougherty, now an NBC news man, who said Freiden had invented the whole conversation.

There are words.

In Arizona, highway cleanup crews couldn't keep pace with litterers until roadside signs were changed a few years ago. Before them, anti-litter posters read, "Deposit litter ahead 1/4 mile." Many motorists took the signs literally, and scattered garbage over the next quarter-mile. The roads are much cleaner, officials say, since the signs were reworded: "Litter container 1/4 mile."

Nixon turned away in disgust.

"Mel Laird came over with the count. 'The fans have voted 49,768 for me, four for Connally, three for Rocky and one for Agnew,'"

A delegation from the Democratic bench started to cross the field. "Look, Dick," one of them said as he came up to Nixon. "you can't hold up the game forever. We can block any kicker you send on the field."

Nixon barked. "The rules say I have a right to choose any substitute I want to kick for me."

"But only with our approval," another Democratic coach said. "Now we have a compromise. Why don't you use one of OUR kickers? It could bring the stadium together."

"You're out of your minds," Nixon said. "You want me to use a Democratic player on my team?"

The Democratic coach shrugged his shoulders. "It's the only way you'll ever get to punt."

Nixon angrily turned to the bench, looked at Rep. Gerald Ford, and said, "Go in, Jerry, and win this one for Spiro."

Sidelines drama in big game

WASHINGTON — Playing Coach Dick Nixon paced up and down the sidelines of the football field. His team was on his own 10-yard line, and he was being forced to punt. To make matters worse, his only kicker, Ted Agnew, had been thrown out of the game for unsportsmanlike conduct and had been put on probation for three years and fined $10,000.

 Sitting on the bench, all suited up, were Johnny Connally, Rocky Rockefeller, Ronnie Reagan, Bill Rogers, Mel Laird, Barry Goldwater and Big Elliot Richardson.

"Send me in, Coach," begged Connally. "I can save the game."

"I can't kick," Rocky said, "but if you need me, I'll run with the ball."

Ronnie Reagan said, "Don't forget, I was the original Gipper of Notre Dame."

Nixon just walked up and down the sidelines some more.

He was in a terrible dilemma. If he sent in a strong player, the Democratic team vowed to block the kick. If he sent in a weak player, he might lose the game.

He looked over at Johnny Connally. Johnny was his first choice, but he was a problem for any coach. He had played on the Democratic team until this year, and now that he was on the Republican team, the Democrats seemed to have it in for him. Nixon's scouts had informed him that if he sent in Connally the Demos would smother him.

The crowd, shocked by Agnew's sudden departure from the field, kept screaming for a substitute.

But this punt meant a lot, and Coach Nixon was not about to be rushed. He walked to the Republican cheering section and said over the loudspeaker, "I need your help. Would everybody please list your three choices for a substitute kicker, put them in a sealed envelope and send them down to the field?"

The Democrats were furious. "How long are you going to have a time out?" one of the players yelled.

Nixon ignored him and walked down past his bench.

Everyone looked up hopefully. Ronnie Reagan said, "Coach, I know your game plan and I'm a team player. Give me a break."

Rocky said, "You have to send in someone whom the fans can rally around. You can't think of today, but of the big game in 1976. You won't be sorry, Dick."

Barry Goldwater played it cool. "I don't give a damn if you send me or not, Coach, but you could do a lot worse."

The fans were passing down their sealed envelopes and Mel Laird started counting names. Every time he came across a list in which he wasn't mentioned, he threw it away.

Coach Nixon went up to Big Elliot Richardson. "Elliot, if I send you in, will you forget about the tapes I made of the other games?"

"It's hard to say, Coach. It's not up to me any more; it's up to the football commissioner."

Nixon turned away in disgust.

Dolphins squeeze by Browns, 17-9

CLEVELAND (AP) — "There were no fancy plays, just head on head," said Cleveland Browns middle linebacker Bob Babich. "In a game like that something had to break, and unfortunately it broke against us."

Babich's comment came moments after the Miami Dolphins handed the Browns their second defeat of the season, 17-9, in a National Football League game Monday night.

"Mercury's (Morris) run and (Mike) Kolen's interception were the big plays," Dolphins Coach Don Shula said.

With the Browns ahead 6-3, Morris broke away for a 70-yard gallop in the third period and put the ball on the Cleveland nine-yard line. Three plays later Larry Csonka went in from the two and put the Dolphins ahead for good.

"He (the Browns' Clarence Scott) walked up to me," Morris said. "I should have had a touchdown. I didn't know how close he was or I would have stiff-armed him."

Browns linebacker Charlie Hall said, "we had him (Morris) cornered and he caught our pursuit going the wrong way. It was a sweep to the left, he stopped, planted his feet and cut back. He has the speed to turn it on."

Kolen intercepted quarterback Mike Phipps' pass and returned it 29 yards, giving the Dolphins first and ten on the Browns' 18 with 6:41 left on the clock.

Csonka, who gained 114 yards for the Dolphins, moved the ball to the two, then went in for his second touchdown of the night to put it out of reach for the Browns.

"They were in zone coverage," Kolen said of the interception. "The ball was not thrown that well."

Hall said "I still thought we could win it until the interception. The interception was the big play."

At the time of the interception the Browns were down 10-9.

This is the third time this season the Browns have failed to score a touchdown. Don Cockroft kicked field goals of

"I don't really know why we can't get into the end zone," Phipps said. "I'll have to take the blame for some bad play calling. I guess that's where my lack of experience comes in."

The contest was on national television, and for the first time in the Browns' history local TV was not blacked out. Lifting of the blackout definitely affected attendance.

The Browns announced they had sold all 79,282 seats in the stadium last Tuesday, but only 72,070 showed up for the game on a clear crisp evening.

The loss puts the Browns in a tie for second place in the American Football Conference's Central Division with the Cincinnati Bengals. Both teams are 3-2.

Bradshaw gets back at Cincy linebacker

CINCINNATI (AP) — At long last, Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw got a shot at Cincinnati Bengal center linebacker Bill Bergey and "really stuck him."

Bergey, who has delighted in taking shots at the blond quarterback over the past three years—infuriating him last year—was nailed on his first pass in Sunday's game as the Bengals upset the Steelers 19-7.

"You know I had to put a shot on him," chuckled Bradshaw, "and I really stuck him right in the moustache. He'll feel it for a couple of days. I hope I didn't hurt him too much."

That Bradshaw surprised me for a quarterback. He made the tackle and he stuck me pretty good," said the 245-pound Bergey of his 16-yard runback.

Revolt threatened over Andrews case

NEW YORK (AP) — Mad at Charles O. Finley and concerned about Tom Seaver, the Oakland A's meet the New York Mets tonight in the third game of the 1973 World Series.

The controversial Oakland owner and the celebrated New York pitcher were two problems as the A's attempted to break the 1-1 deadlock in this best-of-seven-game classic.

Almost always in some kind of hot water, Finley had most of the A's boiling today with his latest affair—the "firing" of second baseman Mike Andrews.

An announcement from the A's front office stated simply that Andrews was knocked off the roster because of a "shoulder ailment."

However, the A's, almost to a man, believed the eccentric Oakland owner literally fired Andrews for making two costly errors in Sunday's 10-7 loss to the Mets.

The uncomfortable situation has the A's on the brink of a wholesale revolution, says outfielder Reggie Jackson, the team's player representative.

"There could be a possibility of refusing to play," says an outspoken Jackson. "There are a bunch of guys on this team who are close to that point."

However, Jackson tempered that bold statement after thinking about it for a while.

"We have to decide whether it's worth it," said the slugger. "After all, we have an obligation to the fans. We owe them a good performance. If we let things like this bother our play, then we wouldn't be professionals." He stressed, though,

Games may receive $150,000 in aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent to the White House a bill authorizing appropriation of $150,000 to help finance the Arctic Winter Games to be held in Anchorage, Alaska, in March 1974.

The House took the final action Monday, voting 306-54 for a bill already passed by the Senate. Actual funds will depend on later appropriation legislation.

Bill Brown ousted

NEW DELHI — Top-seeded Vijay Amritraj of India led the way into the quarterfinals of the Indian Grand Prix Tennis Championships by beating Bill Brown of San Luis Obispo, Calif., 6-3, 6-3 in a first round match.

Gillman said the reason for Peterson's dismissal was obvious—his 1-18 record, but declined to go into specifics.

"We're in a winning business," the square-jawed Gillman said. "There is no excuse for failure in our business."

When pressed for specifics, Gillman stuck to his guns. "He's won before. He will probably win again some other place," Gillman said. "He didn't here and was relieved as a consequence."

Adams, who said the entire decision was Gillman's, may have touched on part of the problem.

"Evidently we're not putting together a game plan that is enabling us to win," Adams said. "Right there is where some changes needed to be made. I think Sid thought the best way to do that was to change the man who was making out the game plan.

"He (Sid) was working as offensive coordinator but Pete still was the head coach. Pete formulated the overall game plans for both offense and defense."

Gillman said he was taking over only as the interim coach and restated that he never planned to coach for the Oilers.

that practically the whole team was disenchanted with some of the stunts pulled by the Oakland owner.

"Believe me, there are going to be a lot of holdouts in spring training next year," said Jackson. "Some players are going to hold out just for spite."

To further dramatize the bizarre situation some of the A's went through a lazy practice Monday at Shea Stadium wearing adhesive No. "17s" on their uniform sleeves.

"It was in memory of Mike Andrews," said third baseman Sal Bando, half-joking but obviously upset with the new Finley twist.

The mental problems were coupled with the very real physical problem of hitting Seaver's pitches. The ace of the New York staff will be opposed by Oakland's Jim "Catfish" Hunter in a duel of right-handers.

Along with Finley, Seaver also was on Jackson's mind as he readied himself for the confrontation with the National League champions.

"They got a guy going for them that they heard about in China," said Jackson.

A's power doesn't scare Tom Seaver

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver, believed by many of his peers to be the best pitcher in baseball, isn't about to change his style for anybody.

And that includes Reggie Jackson.

The powerful Oakland line-up features the right-handed power of Sal Bando, Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi, but it's the left-handed slugging Jackson who should worry the right-handed Seaver.

But he doesn't.

"I won't change my style of pitching," said Seaver, 19-10, who will oppose Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 21-5, for tonight's third game of the 70th World Series in a duel between two premier right-handers.

Seaver, who won the NL

playoff's decisive fifth game after losing the opener, attributes his late-season problems to a tired arm.

"I'm glad I'll be getting that extra day's rest," said Seaver, whose normal vacation time between starts is four days.

"Now we're in the World Series so I can forget the last couple of weeks," said Seaver.

"But if we'd lost the NL East by one game, it would have been a long winter."

"I respect their hitters and I know they go for fastballs, but I won't let them take my strength away from me."

The only person who ever takes Seaver's strength away is Tom Seaver.

"If I have my stuff, I'll challenge their hitters. If not, I'll have to adjust," Seaver said.

Jackson, the American League's leading home run hitter with 32 and top RBI man with 117, broke out of a late season slump in Sunday's 10-7 loss to the Mets with four straight hits.

She will be crowned Saturday during halftime festivities of the Oklahoma State-Missouri football game.

The first runner-up was Leslie Hutchins of Columbia; the second runner-up, Sharon Staggers of Hayward, Calif.

KU, Buffs worry about next foes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas Jayhawks and the Colorado Buffaloes fear their respective Big Eight Conference football opponents Saturday will be in an angry mood.

Kansas plays Nebraska, a club that is smarting from last week's 13-12 loss to Missouri. Colorado is fairly certain its foe, Oklahoma, hasn't forgotten the 20-14 licking the Buffs handed the Sooners a year ago.

"They'll be mad all week," Fambrough said of Nebraska Monday during the Big Eight's weekly telephone briefing.

The Cornhuskers not only lost to Missouri but, as a result, dropped from second to 11th in the national rankings.

"I hope our guys will not be afraid of Oklahoma," said Coach Eddie Crowder of the 16th-ranked Buffs. "They could be aroused by the fact we beat them last year. That was the only game they lost."

Crowder, who indicated he was startled by Oklahoma's whopping 52-13 triumph over Texas, said the Sooners "are getting great play out of their entire team, great play out of their newcomers."

Colorado's sophomore quarterback, Clyde Crutchmer, will be at full strength after being slowed by an injury and Charlie Davis now is the team's No. 1 tailback, replacing freshman Billy Waddy. Crowder said:

Cowboy Barry Switzer of the third-ranked Sooners said his team must "be mature enough to forget the Texas game and concentrate on Colorado. They make big plays ... and they are a physical, strong team on defense."

"He hasn't practiced all week," Stanley said. "He may or may not play. If he doesn't, Charlie Weatherbie would have the nod very definitely. Anytime you face a team like Missouri, it's touch. We don't plan to change our ways very much for the Missouri game."

"It will be the toughest ball game to date for us, including Southern California," Fambrough said. "The Jay-

Junior colleges resume league proposal talks

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Administrators from the nine Missouri-Kansas junior colleges proposing the formation of a conference will meet here Wednesday at Kansas City, Kan., Community Junior College to further discuss the plans.

Fred Davis, president of State Fair Community College one of the schools involved in the proposed league, said Tuesday morning that approval of the constitution and bylaws were the chief topics on the agenda. Davis noted that there will be a separate set of bylaws covering athletics, and another set governing the social and cultural areas of the proposed league.

Other junior colleges involved in the proposed conference are Johnson County, Kan., Community College; Longview, Penn Valley and Maple Woods of Kansas City; Trenton, Mo.; Junior College; Highland, Kan., Community College; Haskell (Kan.) Institute; and Kansas City, Kan., Community Junior College.

JuCo All-American cage transfer ruled ineligible at Wichita State

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Rudy Jackson, an outstanding center counted on to launch a new era of respectability in Wichita State University basketball, has been declared ineligible by the school following the discovery he never finished high school.

The announcement came Monday night from Ted Bredehoft, WSU athletic director, after a series of meetings during the day with the school's athletic board and Mickey Holmes, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Bredehoft also said Steve Shalin, a longtime friend of Jackson, has been fired from his job as student assistant on the basketball team for forging a high school transcript.

Jackson, 6-foot-10, transferred to Wichita State this semester as a sophomore after playing one year at Hutchinson, Kansas Community Junior College. He averaged 23 points and 14 rebounds a game in leading the Blue Dragons to a second-place finish in the national junior college tournament and was named the Junior College All-American team's center.

He comes from Queens, N.Y., where he attended John Bowe High School.

Four St. Louis Cards may miss game with Washington

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals have lost more than a disheartening 27-24 Sunday ballgame to the Philadelphia Eagles.

The team said Monday that medical reports on the players showed that three running backs and an offensive tackle are doubtful starters in the near future because of injuries received in the Eagles game.

A Cardinals spokesman said running backs Willie Belton and Terry Metcalf suffered twisted knees in the loss and may not see action in next week's game.

Instructional work for three Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Three Kansas City baseball pitchers have reported to the instructional club at Sarasota, Fla., to work on various phases of their pitching. The Royals said today. The three are Doug Bird, Bruce Dal Canton and Wayne Simpson.

against the Washington Redskins. Definitely out for the Redskins game is rookie running back Eddie Moss, who suffered a ruptured biceps tendon.

Offensive tackle Roger Finnie suffered a foot injury and is listed as doubtful for the game.

Rookie Cardinal Coach Don Coryell couldn't take the blame for the injuries, but he did say his decision to gamble on a fourth-and-two situation late in the game was a "bum decision."

The Cardinals, attempting to protect a 24-20 lead, opted not to punt and the result was a three-yard loss by Donnie Anderson. The Eagles, with Roman Gabriel completing four of five passes, scored the winning touchdown in the game's remaining 51 seconds.

"I didn't want to take a chance on a blocked punt," Coryell said. "I thought maybe we could get two yards and then run the clock out."

"I'm proud of the ball club," insisted Coryell, whose Cardinals now have a 2-3 record following their third straight loss. "With a bit of luck, it could've gone the other way. It was just a bum decision on my part."

Coryell said he would wait and see how the team bounced back Sunday on the road against the Redskins, whom the Cardinals upset 34-27 last Monday.

Bavasi has good news and bad news

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Buzzie Bavasi, president of the revived San Diego Padres, told sportswriters Monday he had some good news and some bad news about the baseball team.

"The good news is that we may stay here," he said. "and the bad news, I guess, is the same thing."

Keady said Jackson came to his office last fall with Shalin, WSU basketball Coach Harry Miller and Buddy Othick, a WSU assistant.

"The first thing I asked was, 'Is he a high school graduate?' and they said, 'Yes.' Keady said.

Franson said Shalin had known Jackson from Jackson's boyhood. "Rudy put complete trust in Steve," Franson said. "He left it to Steve to see that he got the opportunities."

Sam Butterfield, the school's athletic director, said Jackson's high school transcript was sent directly to the Hutchinson registrar from John Bowe High School, "complete with the high school official seal." He said, "If it had been falsified at the school, our registrar would have no way of knowing it."

to 'the next big one' to come out of college."

Franson said Holmes prompted a check of Jackson's background.

After returning to his home at Tulsa Monday night, Holmes said Jackson's high school listed grade points on a percentage basis, and he wanted more detail before converting the grades to the 4-point basis gauged by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"When we called the school, they said he never graduated," Holmes said. "At this point I can't go any further than that because we're still investigating."

Holmes said routine checking of other transfers and incoming freshmen has uncovered an apparent infraction at another conference school, but he declined further comment on this because "they haven't acted on it yet."

Franson said Shalin acted as Jackson's representative, contacting the WSU coaching staff about the player's talents "and other coaches around the country, as I understand it."

ace. Eight of hearts return as a suit preference signal to ask for a diamond lead next. Ruff by West; diamond return to the ace and a second heart ruff.

The analysts also point out that nothing can hurt a four-heart contract, but don't see how to get there.

We agree with that. In fact, we doubt if anyone actually did play this hand in hearts.

Furthermore we doubt if even a corporal's guard of players found that killing defense. Even if the jack of hearts is opened and East clatters up with the ace, South will drop his queen. East is not likely to lead a heart back.

Eleven freight cars are derailed

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Eleven cars of an eastbound Rock Island freight derailed three miles west of here Monday night, tearing up about a half-mile section of track.

There were no injuries and no preliminary damage estimates. Each of the derailed cars was empty.

One Rock Island official speculated the accident was due to a broken rail.

Accident saves life of woman

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Clara Small was being driven to her grave when a traffic accident saved her life, police say.

The police gave this account:

Winfield Hilbert, 60, forced his way into the home of his former wife, Mrs. Small, 73, on Oct. 5. He handcuffed her, beat her severely and held her captive for five days. He took her to a secluded cemetery, forced her to dig a grave and told her she was going to bury her there.

Before making a second trip to the cemetery, he removed her jewelry and other means of identification. En route to the cemetery last Thursday, he was involved in a minor traffic mishap and was arrested. He was intoxicated and was carrying a revolver.

"Mrs. Small was too frightened to say anything at the time, but she later told what had happened to relatives who phoned us," Police Sgt. Don Newberger said Monday.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF our Mother, Marie F. Bremer who passed away, October 16th, 1972. She had a smile for everyone. Her heart was pure as gold. To those who knew and loved her best Their memory will never grow cold. The blow was hard, the shock severe. We never thought her death so near. Sleep on, sleep on and take your rest. We loved you but God loved you best. Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren
